Prague is quite possibly one of the most stunning cities in Europe, a UNESCO world heritage listed gem. Known as "the city of a thousand spires", Prague has become an archetypal post-communist city success story with seemingly not a month going without a travel pundit or writer conjuring up another city as the "New Prague". Even the most narrow-minded cynic cannot stop from being impressed strolling across the Charles Bridge or entering in the Old Town for the first time. It is the "magic city Prague", where anything is possible.
